

Southern Style

Atmore News
Page 1, Section B

Greater Good Music Festival

Project Touch (through Escambia County schools).

Anyone interested in learning more about The Learning Post Ranch the contact information is: 4150 Cedar Springs Road, Molino, Fla., 32577, 850-587-5940.

Also joining the activities was GINA for Missing Persons. The Squeaky Wheel Tour is comprised of musicians in locations across the US, Europe and Australia who donate time to profile missing persons in the area.

One of the bands performing at Greater Good, Carey Colvin & Granger Helvey, profiled the following missing individuals during their performances:
Melissa Eck
Missing from Pensacola since June 25, 1992;
Darlene Louise Lary
Missing from Pritchard since June 16, 2004;
Aaron Harry Seltz
Missing from Milton since June 2, 2002;

See GOOD, page 3B

By RYAN CARTER
News Staff Writer

It's about being in the right place at the right time.
Rick Kindle had the vision and could not

Music Festival featured a slight hill in a picturesque program offered differently in an attempt to bring in people.
boundaries," he said.
also served another purpose: raise money for The Ranch in Molino.
Ranch is a 40-acre horse round and serves high mentally or physically disabled children.
It does so by utilizing therapy.
Cervin who is one of the staff at the ranch, they use the said research shows

Shown is the stage for Greater Good. Performing on stage are, from left, Carey Colvin, David Alberding and Granger Helvey.

Photos provided by Ryan Carter

designed our workshops to try and educate parents in their children continue down the road to success."

Senior night
On Friday, October 6, Northview High School celebrated senior night before the last regular season home football game. Senior football players, cheerleaders, band members, and ROTC cadets were honored as they were escorted onto the field by their parents. Pictured here is senior cheerleader Rachel Killam being escorted by her parents Melanie and Gary Killam.
News photo by Jodi Peacock

Farm

farm," Mark said. Mark and Kimberly describe their dream as a "traditional farm." Although their intention isn't to earn a living from the farm, they would like to have other families join them as they explore the world of organic farming. "We like to have livestock and vegetables," Mark said. "We'd also like to be able to have other families who want to experience farm life without having all the responsibility that goes along with it."

Mark and Kimberly are living their farm dream with their two children, Noah, who turned three recently and, Mariah, who is almost 16 months. Kimberly said they were at dinner and met Rick through friends.

"He said I have a vision, but I don't have a place," she said.

She said she and Mark really like music and if Noah and Mariah are any indication, they obviously like kids, so they felt their farm was just what Rick needed to make his dream a reality.

Good

• Lisa Ann Pierce Missing from Mobile since November 6, 2000. For more information about GINA, visit www.411GINA.org.

"Each year we choose a different charity," Kindle said. "Kids are our greater good."

Kindle said if the event could bring young people together so they could learn to understand what makes us different and inspire them to interact with others, we could solve some of the problems our society faces today.

The event also featured kid's yoga, arts and crafts, face painting, music workshops for kids, a story time, and a youth parade.

For the older ones in the crowd, there were nine musical bands scheduled for Saturday and seven for Sunday offering a wide variety of music. Although Kindle was disappointed in the turnout Saturday afternoon, he called the event a success, and he hoped they would be able to raise a good amount of money for the ranch.

Cont. from page 1A

Sponsored by Nicki Kearley,
Your State Farm Agent
302 East Church Street Atmore 251-368-8
Looking Back

Levice Haynie shared this great picture with us. We don't know the people are or the occasion. If you can identify anyone, please call Ahmore News at 368-6397 or e-mail sherry@news.com.

DAVID'S
CATFISH
HOUSE

T
gi
sai